

CELL SURFACE DISPLAY OF PROTEINS BY RECOMBINANT HOST CELLS

ABSTRACT OF THE DISCLOSURE

Methods and vectors are described for expressing recombinant proteins on the surface of host cells. These processes and compositions provide the basis for strategies to produce a fusion protein, comprising a membrane anchor that allows extracellular attachment of the fusion protein in a type II orientation.